

Italian newspaper: War in Karabakh showed that Baku sponsors ISIL

The war in Nagorno-Karabakh showed that Azerbaijan is a state which behaves like ISIL. This has already been confirmed by the presence of the caliphate ex-fighters in the conflict zone. And this proves that the republic governed by dictator Aliyev is the most genuine sponsor of the Islamic State terrorists, Italian newspaper Sponda Sud writes.

The article reads:

“There exist no principles which can be followed during killings in war, but there are unwritten military rules: soldiers fight against other soldiers, but respect them and do not mistreat their bodies. Moreover, they do not open fire at civilians.

Azerbaijan showed that it neither follows the international values nor respects them. What does Europe do? Europe, the symbol of civilization which always fought against terrorism, is doing nothing now. When Armenians were burying their soldiers, the UN spoke about the union between civil societies at the VII International Humanitarian Forum, which was ironically held in Baku.

Apparently, there can be no ties between the civilization and beheading of a soldier. And after all this, Aliyev even awarded the soldier who did this, showing his army that this is the path to awards.

It is not the first time Baku has awarded killers. We recall Ramil Safarov. This name is associated with heroism and glory in Azerbaijan. Whereas Safarov axed sleeping Armenian soldier Gurgen Margaryan to death.

Azerbaijan supports terrorism. This is dangerous not only for Armenia and its Diaspora, but also for the entire Europe. Baku’s actions aimed at supporting terrorism should be stopped. Humanism is not merely words. It is not merely a topic of international conferences. It is first of all support to the countries which struggle for liberty and refuse violence.”
